The Revolving Doors Agency Manifesto 2015

This document set out five priorities for the incoming government to improve responses for the most excluded individuals across the country

ACHIEVEMENTS

Lived experience in commissioning

We developed and piloted a new model of bringing people with lived experience into the heart of local commissioning. In both Wandsworth and Barking and Dagenham the commissioners have accepted and tangibly acted on the recommendations from service users, including for example decommissioning a service and reallocating the funding.

Cross-disciplinary research network on severe and multiple disadvantage

We established a ground-breaking cross-disciplinary research network on severe and multiple disadvantage bringing together academics from across different disciplines and sectors to see the whole person.

Young adults in the criminal justice system

We worked with Police and Crime Commissioners to advocate for better responses to young adults in contact with the criminal justice system.

Media coverage

We have been featured in The Guardian, Third Sector Magazine, Local Government Chronicle, Commissioning Review Magazine.

Our Lived Experience Team

In this year some of lived experience experts we work with have edited national publications, spoken on radio4, spoken at national conferences, presented findings to civil servants, increased their volunteering, secured jobs, contributed blogs, got married and pitched to funders.

Our Partners

This year we have partnered with: NHS England, NIHR, KPMG, Camden CCG, Centre for Mental Health, Nacro, Wandsworth Council, Barking and Dagenham, Council, Cass Business School, St Mungo's, Clinks and more.

Influencing decision-makers

We are a member of Ministerial Advisory group on women offenders and clerk of the Bradley Report Group. We are also on the APPG for ending homelessness.

OUR POLICY WORK

The Government committed to continued national roll out of Liaison and Diversion services across the country.

Revolving Doors has played a role as part of the Offender Health Collaborative in designing the operating model, supporting sites to do this work and providing the lived experience expertise to the national Programme Board.

The Home Secretary announced £15m of new funding to provide health-based alternatives for the 4,000 people a year who spend time in detention in police cells under the Mental Health Act. Along with others, we have been active in calling for this change.

Review of drug treatment outcomes

Hosted a lived experience focus group on behalf of Public Health England as part of their review of drug treatment outcomes.
